Background

The Health and Safety Commission (HSC) has set a new strategic direction for the health and safety system in Great Britain. The HSE and LAs are the HSC's enforcing authorities. The new HSC Strategy envisages a significant change in how HSE and LAs work together and the HSC has asked HSE and LAs to establish a Strategic Programme that will develop and deliver detailed arrangements for working together in an effective partnership.

The Strategic Programme is one of five established to help deliver the Health and Safety Commission's (HSC) Strategy for workplace health and safety in Great Britain to 2010 and beyond.
