13. Protecting Green Belt land

133. The Government attaches great importance to Green Belts. The fundamental aim of Green Belt policy is to prevent urban sprawl by keeping land permanently open; the essential characteristics of Green Belts are their openness and their permanence.

134. Green Belt serves five purposes:
   a) to check the unrestricted sprawl of large built-up areas;
   b) to prevent neighbouring towns merging into one another;
   c) to assist in safeguarding the countryside from encroachment;
   d) to preserve the setting and special character of historic towns; and
   e) to assist in urban regeneration, by encouraging the recycling of derelict and other urban land.

135. The general extent of Green Belts across the country is already established. New Green Belts should only be established in exceptional circumstances, for example when planning for larger scale development such as new settlements or major urban extensions. Any proposals for new Green Belts should be set out in strategic policies, which should:
   a) demonstrate why normal planning and development management policies would not be adequate;
   b) set out whether any major changes in circumstances have made the adoption of this exceptional measure necessary;
   c) show what the consequences of the proposal would be for sustainable development;
   d) demonstrate the necessity for the Green Belt and its consistency with strategic policies for adjoining areas; and
   e) show how the Green Belt would meet the other objectives of the Framework.

136. Once established, Green Belt boundaries should only be altered where exceptional circumstances are fully evidenced and justified, through the preparation or updating of plans. Strategic policies should establish the need for any changes to Green Belt boundaries, having regard to their intended permanence in the long term, so they can endure beyond the plan period. Where a need for changes to Green Belt boundaries has been established through strategic policies, detailed amendments to those boundaries may be made through non-strategic policies, including neighbourhood plans.
