Support the Proposal

The effects on the elderly of the recent pandemic have served to emphasise how important it is to have supported care establishments such as this in our community. Residents could still be within a familiar area, or come here to be near family members. As the size of the over 65s population increases, residential communities are becoming increasingly vital, and are already in short supply.

Being able to use a brownfield site for this development, rather than agricultural land, is an definite advantage.
